

In case of rain...

A message from the Archikids Team

Dear families and urban adventurers,

We can't wait for the weekend extravaganza- we're in for a weekend full of crafty fun whilst exploring the City of London. We hope you're looking forward to it!

The weather is looking good overall but we thought we would update you all in case we do have unexpected weather for the Saturday 22 and Sunday 23 and what alternatives we're able to accommodate.

Our overall aim is to keep activities going and if we do have a couple of light showers throughout the day we will then pause any outdoor activities until the rain stops.

However, if we do experience really heavy rain that doesn't subside then please read carefully each action and alternatives for our four hubs:

30 St Mary Axe (Gherkin):

- All activities are outdoors.
- If there's a light shower then all activities will be paused until the rain stops.
- If we experience heavy and persistent rain then all activities will be cancelled for the day and the activity hub will be shut down. - We will place notices around the hub if this happens to inform attendees.
- If we experience heavy and persistent rain you can visit our Museum of London and Broadgate hubs that will remain open ☺.

Broadgate

- The only activity that isn't undercover is Hatwalk Catwalk.
- If there's a light shower then Hatwalk Catwalk will be paused until the rain stops.
- If we experience heavy and persistent rain then Hatwalk Catwalk will be cancelled for the day and the activity will be shut down. - We will place notices in the hub if this happens.
- On Saturday 22 Postcards from London and Funtastic City will remain open. On Sunday 23 Build with Fabrics and our pre-book activity Scope the City will remain open. You can also visit our Museum of London hub ☺.

Museum of London

- All activities are undercover.

St Paul's Cathedral Churchyard - Sunday 23 only

- If there's a light shower then all activities will be paused until the rain stops.
- If we experience heavy and persistent rain then all activities will be cancelled for the day and the activity hub will be shut down. - We will place notices around the hub if this happens to inform attendees.
- If we experience heavy and persistent rain you can visit our Museum of London and Broadgate hubs that will remain open ☺.

We hope you have amazing weekend!

Thank you,
The Archikids Festival team
